

"Greek with Heiser" Syllabus (sample of last year, 2009)

Explanation of the Course: An independent study course, with the assistance of an instructor, designed to give the student an elementary grasp of biblical Hebrew grammar and vocabulary. The course requires a good deal of memorization, but the material is broken up over a year to make it manageable.

Required Materials:

- David Alan Black, Learn to Read New Testament Greek)
 - Available in hard copy at Amazon.com
 - (Recommended) Available in electronic form from Logos Bible Software
 - Note that the instructor does not get a commission on digital sales; there are advantages the digital version, but the hard copy book may be used.
- Internet access is required for two reasons:
 - Assorted course videos will be posted in the Google Group created for the course.
 - The Google group is a place where those taking the course can interact and post questions. Posted questions will be addressed in the Week 2 video (see below).

Course Schedule

The course begins on Sunday, October 4, 2009. The course will follow the schedule below. It is designed to run for one year in two-week units. Units will at times skip weeks due to holidays.

Explanation of the Two Week Unit:

- Week 1: The student reads the chapter(s) in the grammar as assigned, memorizes the vocabulary, and completes the assigned exercises.
- At the beginning of Week 2, the instructor will post two videos for the unit: (1) a video explaining certain items in the chapter to make sure the student understands the material; (2) a video going through the assigned exercises and their answers. The grammar contains an answer key that the student may consult AFTER attempting the exercises, and so the second video is designed to make sure the answers are understood.
- The instructor may post other videos; in that event, students will get an email to that effect.
 - Students are encouraged to use the Google Group for the course to post questions. Since the videos will be posted at the beginning of Week 2, students need to start each unit promptly so the instructor gets their questions in time for the video.
- During Week 2 the student can review the contents of the unit and (especially) master the vocabulary.
- At the end of the second week, the next unit begins unless there is a practice exam noted in the schedule. In that event, an exam will be posted for a third week of that particular unit. A video explaining the exam answers will also be posted toward the end of this third (exam) week.
